

Rooftop Republic provides end-to-end services to convert often idling building spaces into urban farms, and through a farming as a service impact business model provides employment to local organic farmers and socially disadvantaged groups.

- The need: To address the current environmental, societal and economic issues caused by urbanisation and modern industrialised agricultural industry by reconnecting people with food and promoting more sustainable, circular food systems
- USP: Positive social impact, ability to scale existing business and develop new products, near-breakeven business model
- Step change: To grow the number of urban farms set-up by 5x over investment period
- SIP capacity building: Management restructuring, operational scale-up, and upgrade governance and accounting practices
- Sustainability: Diversify revenue streams with new products offered via online platform