KIBO is a footwear company committed to sourcing materials ethically and to ensuring every stage of the value chain incorporates the best social and sustainability practices.

- With timeless sneaker styles and designs, Kibo attempts to shift consumers away from fast fashion through both the B2C and B2B models.
- The company sources almost all of the materials from recycled or natural sources, including Global Recycled Standard-certified recycled leather, post-consumer plastic bottles, recycled cotton and natural rubber and cork for the optimal blend of comfort, support, durability and sustainability.

Social Impact:

- reuses 95% of its water during the production processes and does not require any tanning procedures to eliminate the toxic water wastage.
